

JUST PUPPY LOVE BETWEEN GIRL AND COTTON DUCK KING

That Is, Turner and Miss Winthrop Both Love Dogs, but Not Each Other.

WON'T WED, HE SAYS.

Second Wife Has Divorce and Report Said "Ward" Would Be Mrs. Turner, No. 3.

It is purely a matter of dogs with Thomas Monroe Turner, the "Cotton Duck King," and Miss Mary Winthrop of the dreamy eyes and the prize-winning French bull pups. If there is any sort of love in the premises it is purely puppy love, with each of them loving the puppies as a common denominator of their friendship, and not one another.

Mr. Turner said so himself today. He denied that he entertained any divine passion for the young woman who is his ward. Also he denied the report that he would marry her just as soon as the time elapsed between yesterday's signing of an interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of his second wife and the issuance of the final mandate.

Mr. Turner has a handsome home at No. 51 Henson street, Brooklyn. He was found here today and asked directly if he intended to make his darling ward Mrs. Turner No. 3.

"That is absurd," he replied. "My interest in Miss Winthrop was brought about solely by reason of the fact that she is a dog fancier."

There was a pause that had its humorous possibilities for the stage as who could picture a two-sided situation from the remark. He caught it and turned the play this way:

"You see, I fancy dogs myself. She raises French and English bulldogs and I have a fancy for French dogs, so we got to be friendly over the dogs."

"She is a girl of twenty-three years and is making a little money in the dog business. I am looking after her affairs for her, purely in a business way, and while I have never executed any documents to that effect, I am regarding her in the capacity of a ward. It had not lived with my wife for ten years and the divorce was the natural result of such a condition. The report is totally untrue that I intend marrying Miss Winthrop."

Miss Winthrop is at her home at Shelter Island. The second Mrs. Turner yesterday obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce. It became final in ninety days. When the first Mrs. Turner got a divorce, nineteen years ago, Turner fooled his friends. He did not marry the woman they expected him to. They admit that he may fool them again. But Miss Winthrop is a beauty and already conducts the Turner establishment in her capacity as "ward." There will soon be no legal hindrance to another romance, and Turner has had several.

The second Mrs. Turner was Miss Maude May. In 1893 she ran over to Jersey with Turner and was married, a year after he was divorced by his first wife, who was Miss Emily Jones, daughter of A. R. Barnes, the publisher. Turner had just achieved additional notoriety by being named as co-respondent in a divorce suit brought by James Blumfield. The second wife began divorce proceedings against him last month through J. J. Hensfield & Wolf, residing in New York, where it was asserted in court Turner lived openly as "Mrs. Turner" until 1907, when Miss Blair disappeared from the scene and pretty Miss Winthrop appeared, first as a friend, then as an "heirloom" and finally as a "ward."

CONDUCTS THE AFFAIRS OF A $250,000 TRUST.

Turner is about fifty-five years old, the eldest son of the late J. Spencer Turner. At No. 36 Worth street he directs the affairs of the J. Spencer Turner Company and a large part of the affairs of the $250,000 Cotton Duck Trust, which he helped to organize and in which he is a large stockholder.

Brooklyn society is now speculating as to the next chapter in Turner's affairs of the heart. Some say that before Miss Winthrop became Mr. Turner's "ward"—no court record is known of such an adoption—she was Maggie Hays, an adopted daughter of the nation at Groton House, Groton, Mass. After a year with a musical comedy ten years ago she came to New York and was soon known as "the Brooklyn belle."

Miss Winthrop has won prizes at some and abroad with her dogs. Her hobby is to breed a new crossed breed of bulldog. Among the thirty or forty fine canines she has in the basement of the Henson street home and at Never-Neverland, the Remsen country place on Shelter Island, are available, that cost $50, and Cham-

MARRY WHEN 20 IS THE ADVICE OF BENEDICT OF 47.

"I would advise every man to marry when he is young and not make the mistake of waiting until he is advanced in years before choosing a life-partner. I have missed a great deal of happiness by devoting myself too much to business and not enough to the lovelier things of life. The trouble with most American men is they remain single too long and miss the best life has to offer. Take my tip, boys, and find the right girl as soon as you turn the twenty-year mark."

This is the opinion of Edward Lagerback, millionaire manufacturer of Canton, O., who at the age of forty-seven sailed on his honeymoon trip with his bride of thirty aboard the Mauretania yesterday.

Charmagne, said to be the best French bulldog on earth. She has written a handbook on dog breeding.

WIFE DELAYED DIVORCE SUIT ON ACCOUNT OF SON.

The second Mrs. Turner left her husband in 1905, being loth to bring suit on account of her sixteen-year-old boy, Thomas McElvane Turner, whose custody has now been awarded to her. Mrs. Turner is now living at the Oregon, fifty-fourth street and Seventh avenue. She declined today to discuss the case. It is understood, however, that a large sum has been settled on her by Turner.

The first Mrs. Turner has two grown sons.

CHARGE PRIMARY BILL IS TRICK TO AID BOSSES.

Association Appeals to Governor to Stay Approval.

Having failed to get their measures through the Legislature, advocates of a radical direct primary law are turning their batteries on Gov. Dix. They want to prevent him signing the bill which passed the Senate last night.

The Direct Primary Association of New York sent a long telegram to the Governor today. He was urged to stay his approval of the bill, on the ground that it is not direct primary legislation at all, but a bill designed to promote, rather than eliminate, bossism. The radical direct primary advocates hope to persuade the Governor to grant a public hearing before he takes up consideration of the bill. Able orators are pushing up their arguments in anticipation.

Arch-Ease Shoes

Have Proved That Foot Comfort and Style Need Not Quarrel

In these specially designed Gimbel Arch shoes arch supporting shoes got away for the first time in history from the doctrine that foot-comfort demanded broad toes, low flat heels and all that.

But people with high-arched feet sometimes need arch supporting shoes too; and so we originated for women the graceful high-arched model in Arch-Ease Shoes, with narrow toes and none of the external earmarks of shoes designed to relieve foot troubles.

Other makers are coming round to our way of thinking, which gratifies us not a little.

It is possible to get the absolute foot-comfort provided by Arch-Ease Shoes in Six styles for women, from the high-heel, narrow-toe, patent leather shoes to the soft common-sense last, at $4 to $8.

Four styles for men, at $4 to $6.

Two styles for children, at $3 and $3.50.

The Vogue of the Lace Blouse Was Launched in America by GIMBELS

Paris was never more enthusiastic about a new mode than she is over the Lace Blouse at the present moment. And New York women may be hand in hand with Parisiennes—owing to our foresightedness.

Weeks ago we carefully studied the Blouse situation in Paris and then imported the most beautiful Lace Blouses created for the present season in Paris—ordinarily this vogue would not reach New York until some months hence. We do not believe in waiting!

One must see these Blouses to appreciate the exquisite real laces, and how artistically they have been combined, as neither mere words nor the sketches can describe their beauty. However, we have endeavored to illustrate one of the Blouses—of Duchess lace, inset with narrow panels of fine black net, cleverly hand-stitched with white, also strips of rose chiffon and embroidery, to give a bolero effect. The sleeves are particularly charming, as they are the new, straight kimono style with under-sleeve of fine net, edged with double frills. This Blouse is $70.

Other Blouses are entirely of real Venise lace, and those of real Irish lace are also endorsed by Fashion.

Where laces have been combined, one sees not only the hand-work of an artist, but the cleverness of a genius, as in this Blouse of real Venise, Baby Irish and Flet laces, joined by narrow insertions of very fine thread lace, with touches of silver lace.

Imported Lace Blouses, $10.75 to $145.00.

Real Irish Lace Blouses, $12.75 to $125.

Dominating Features of $50 to $150 French Models Reproduced in Net Blouses, $6.95, $8.75, $10.75 and $12.75

That these Blouses have become the talk of New York within a few days is quite easy to understand, because we have had French models so marvelously reproduced. These Blouses are of fine Brussels Net, trimmed with fine shadow laces and chiffon. Some have billowy side frills, others have the new Elise Poret neck frill, and all have delightful wrist frills—wide ones, too.

Again: $2 Broadcloths at $1.10 Yard

It only needed a few days of eager buying to break up the color-assortment of these wonderful Imported Broadcloths, at the extraordinarily low price of $1.10 yard.

But we discovered that the importer was still holding 5,000 yards more of these same Broadcloths in bond; so we drew on his reserve, not only for the colors that had disappeared, but for some that were not previously included, such as pearl, silver, scarlet, Burgundy, Havana, holly, champagne and others. So that, as before, there are more than thirty superb shades from which to choose the material for Fall and Winter tailored suits.
